Red Riding Hood: Ok mum. I'll go there with my basket.

Mother: Here there is a cake, some bread and honey.

Red Riding Hood: Mmmmmm, I want to taste the cake!

Mother: Noooooo! It's for your grandmother.

Red Riding Hood: Ok, I will follow the path.

Mother: Yes, and don't talk to anybody.

Narrator: She is looking for some flowers and she finds a wolf.

Wolf: Good morning girl. Where are you going?

Red Riding Hood: I'm going to visit my grandmother.

Wolf: Is this the path?

Red Riding Hood: Yes, it is. But now I am lost. I was looking for some flowers.

Wolf: I will show you the way.

Red Riding Hood: Ok, I follow you.

Narrator: The wolf has a plan. He will run to arrive first at grandmother's house.

Wolf: (Toc, Toc). I am Little Red Riding Hood.

Grandmother: Come in!

Wolf: Hello grandmother!

Grandmother: Hello Little Red Riding Hood.

Wolf: I bring you some food.

Grandmother: Can you show it to me?

Wolf: Yes of course. I am going to eat you!

Grandmother: Nooooooo!

Narrator: After, Little Red Riding Hood arrives.

Red Riding Hood: Hello grandmother. I am Little Red Riding Hood.

Wolf: Come in!

Red Riding Hood: Grandmother, grandmother. What big eyes you have!

Wolf: Big eyes to see you better!

Red Riding Hood: Grandmother, grandmother. What big ears you have!

Wolf: Big ears to hear you better!

Red Riding Hood: Grandmother, grandmother. What big teeth you have!

Wolf: Big teeth to eat you better!

Red Riding Hood: Noooooooooo!

Narrator: Then, the wolf sleeps because he is full. There is a woodcutter near the house.

Woodcutter: Hello. My name is Fred. I am a woodcutter.

Narrator: The woodcutter hears a strange noise.

Wolf: Grrrrrrrr, Grrrrrrrrrr (snoring).

Woodcutter: What is that noise? I go into the house.

Woodcutter: Ohhhh! That's the wolf! I have to save the grandmother!

Woodcutter: I will cut the wolf's tummy. (plaf!)

Wolf: Nooooooo!

Woodcutter: Here they are!

Red Riding Hood: Thank you Fred!

Grandmother: Yes, thank you very much!

Woodcutter: You're welcome!

Red Riding Hood: You have saved us!

Grandmother: Yes, let's have a party together!

Woodcutter: Good idea. Where is the cake?

Narrator: They lived happily ever after. THE END.
